We are aware that children may have a severe anaphylactic reaction to peanuts. Parents are requested to be diligent with items packed in lunch boxes.

Dear Families,

What have you been learning? We have been working really hard with our students in making sure that they can tell us what they are learning. You can help your child to get better at answering this question by asking them yourself. Be aware however, that they will sometimes confuse this with what they've been doing. A child might tell you that they baked a cake—but why?

The research tells us that when children can tell us what they're learning, they can then apply this learning to other areas of their work.

When students get this question confused with what they're doing, they have difficulty transferring their learning.

For example, when a child learning to write a procedure thinks they're learning to bake a cake, they have difficulty remembering how to write a procedure about other things in other areas.

Opening School Mass—Last week, we celebrated the beginning of the 2019 school year with an induction our fourteen year six school leaders and a welcoming of our twelve new Prep students. Many families and friends were present to support, welcome and celebrate these learners to our community.

Reflecting the school's values of love, dignity, justice and integrity, the 2019 school leaders have already shown great leadership in supporting their Prep 'buddies'.

Between the work of teachers and their buddies; and the support of their families; the Prep students have transitioned very well and are already very independent and are well on their way to becoming effective learners who are organised, persistent, confident, cooperative and resilient.

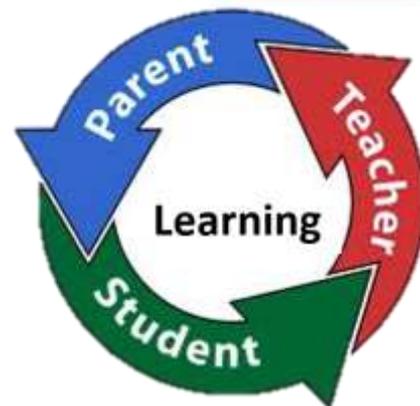

God Bless

Healthy Eating - Breakfast? During physical education lessons last week I spoke with the students about nutrition. I asked each child in each class what they had for breakfast. To my surprise, I discovered 8 children had come to school without breakfast.

While we encourage the building of independence and organisation, a child not having something to eat before arriving at school is a responsibility shared between child and parent. 'I don't feel like anything now' at breakfast quickly turns into ;'I feel unwell at school. The first question we ask children when they are unwell or are having difficulty concentrating is, 'What did you have for breakfast?'

Meet and Greet— We look forward to seeing you at our gathering this afternoon at 5pm. We thank our P&F for supplying the barbeque and Chantelle Keogh for providing the music for the student's disco. See you there.

Look at this for a lunch! Please ensure that your child has a healthy lunch. A sandwich or salad is great brain food. Children are encouraged to eat their healthy food first. Sadly, we spot the odd lunch box that does not have a healthy option to start with.

Dalrymple News

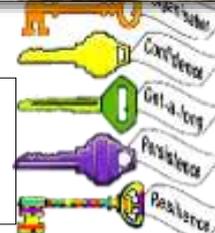

Learning Fun

Welcome back for another exciting week of learning! So far this term, Dalrymple students have been looking at how to make our writing more interesting, as well as how to read with confidence. Students have been setting individual S.M.A.R.T.E.R goals to target what they need to improve on. They have written their own learning intention (What they are learning to do) and success criteria (how they will know if they have achieved success) and have been working hard in small groups and independent time to achieve these goals. Congratulations to those students who have already achieved success in their first goal.

You Can Do It!

The you can do it framework displays the characteristics that students need to be an effective learner. This term, students will be focused on identifying these attributes in themselves as well as in their friends actions.

Interviews

Interviews for Dalrymple began this week. Please make sure that you are aware of your interview time and arrive on time as to not intrude into anybody else's interview. If there are any questions or concerns you have about your child or their learning, this is the perfect opportunity to raise them.

Growth mindset

Many students experience time in the learning pit when learning may be challenging. Students should keep a growth mindset and use their strategies to see themselves improve.

Reporting Student Absences— Queensland law dictates that you must make sure your child is enrolled and attending school on all school days unless there is a valid reason. In accordance with this law, along with all schools, St Patrick's must monitor the attendance of students and follow up with parents and caregivers on any unexplained absences. If your child does not want to go to school, contact the school immediately for assistance and support. The above information has been sourced from <http://education.qld.gov.au/everydaycounts/parents-community/index.html>
